DEFENDANT: Louis Petrossi
CASE NUMBER: 16-cr-234-BMC

The Court makes the following recommendations to the Bureau of Prisons:

Defendant suffers from malignant chronic myelogenous leukemia. This manifests as fatigue, anemia, organ infiltration, and ultimately acute (fatal) leukemia. He is currently taking an oral tyrosine kinase inhibitor called Sprycel, which he must have daily for the rest of his life. When he is otherwise healthy, he needs his blood count and protein level monitored at least every three months. But he is not otherwise presently healthy. During the pretrial phase of the case, while he was in custody for a short time, he suffered a side effect of the Sprycel which was to cause his lungs to fill with fluid, which in turn led to pneumonia. The fluid was last drained in April, 2018, which was the third time he has needed fluid drained to survive. Until he stabilizes, he requires monthly monitoring of his blood count and protein level. There are a number of other things that can go wrong and thus require monitoring.

The Court's decision to impose a substantial incarceratory sentence was influenced, in part, by its understanding the Bureau of Prisons is able to provide adequate medical care for this condition. The Court therefore strongly recommends that the BOP assign defendant to a Federal Medical Center, preferably in or near California, where his family will be able to visit.
